

The First Time I Saw the Sea

The first time I saw the sea
The tide was out, showing the bright yellow sand
As gold as hay.

I walked to the sea, and there I saw
A great blue whale beached on the shore.

As smooth as metal, as dark as night
Swishing its tail from side to side
Making its call so loud, so clear
I felt I should help it
So I came quite near.

I patted its nose
And I whispered in its ear
You're the biggest whale in the world.

I was in a whirl
I ran and ran to a little girl.
I explained about the deep blue whale
She agreed to help.

We ran to the bay
It was the middle of the day
So we had to hurry.
We dug and we dug
Until the tide came in.

The whale pulled into the waves
And now it gracefully swims
Through the bright blue sea.
